LINCOLN FOR LENIN? NO.

CHICAGO, June 16.—The House yesterday voted immediate cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 bonus certificates.

Veterans would have preferred jobs; although spending two and a half billion dollars, cash, among the merchants, big and little, would be a wonderful thing for business revival.

Unfortunately, it is necessary to warn veterans that the bonus so quickly voted in the lower House will hardly become a reality.

There are those who believed that paying the bonus with money printed by this government would in some way offend our national fetish, gold. We sent tens of billions to Europe, without destroying the gold standard. But when it comes to paying men that we also sent to Europe, that is different.

TODAY'S papers will tell you about the Republican prohibition plank. It is hard to please wets and dries with the same plank, and that is the problem.

The plan, now, is to let each state decide for itself whether it prefers ice water, beer or light wine. Some think the individual should be allowed to decide that for himself, but under our "free government" the individual becomes less and less important.

THAT ANCIENT lady, the Chicago Tribune, is carrying on something frightful today. On the front page Lenin, very gory, is sitting in Lincoln's place, his name replaces that of Lincoln scratched out. Piles of corpses lie around, presumably those of "the rich" that have been "soaked" and then "soaked."

On the right a "radical congress," its members carrying red paint, marches off with jeers. The front page editorial says "the national conventions this year may be the last ones held in the United States by a free people."

IT IS some consolation to know that a nation with too much of everything, except common sense and courage, that doesn't know how to use them too much, deserves to lose its freedom.

Suppose we had some real trouble, for instance, the "black death" that in the middle ages

Wet-Dry Fight Splits Ohio Delegation

BUCKEYE STATE BLOC REQUESTS REPEAL OF LAW

Group Turns Against Leaders In Verbal Fight At Convention

NULLIFICATION IS DEFEATED IN VOTE

Ohioans Also Divided In Balloting On Party's Majority Platform

By R. P. CRONIN, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, June 16.—Revolt against the rules of its leaders, the Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention split wide open on the convention floor early today on the prohibition plank.

A bloc of the Buckeye delegates turned their backs upon the leadership of Walter Brown, Simon Fess and James R. Garfield, and expressed themselves in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment.

The majority, always "regular" voted for the administration plan for re-submission, state option and federal control of the liquor traffic. When the minority, or repeal plank was put to a vote, 42-79 Ohioans voted against it, while 12-29 were on the affirmative side. Earlier in the night, after hearing their leaders plead for support of the majority report, drafted under the watchful eye of Garfield, a part of the Ohioans bolted. Thirty-eight went along with Hoover generals while 14 refused to sanction the plank. Three delegates were missing on this vote.

Missing Votes Reappear
When the delegation came to the convention floor, two of the missing votes were present. As the repeal and resubmission advocates paraded the speakers platform and aired their views, Ed. D. Schorr, state chairman, made a re-check. The oratory seemed to have had some effect, for three votes swung over to the administration plank—Wm. F. Hess, Cincinnati, an alternate voting for Ralph Rogan; Core

FARMING EXPERT TO SPEAK HERE

Carl C. Bair, Ohio Bureau Official, Will Appear At County Meeting

Carl C. Bair, official of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, will discuss the "New Frontiers" at the annual banquet of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau, at 8 p. m. Tuesday, June 21, at the Methodist Episcopal church here.

Ellis Satterthwaite, Salem, R. D. county chairman, will preside. C. W. Peters of Minerva, will discuss "High Spots in Rural Life."

Group singing will be led by J. C. C. Bair, E. Moore.

Hawaiian music will be furnished by Messrs Beck, Scott and Gray, and a quartet composed of B. H. Calkins, Wallace R. Hutson, A. Hutson and Ralph Snyder will sing. C. J. Halverstad will give the invocation.

In previous years this event has attracted between 200 and 300 farmers from over the county. There probably will be a large attendance this year.

Kridler Graduates At Western Reserve

AID OF AMERICA ASKED TO SOLVE DEBT PROBLEMS

Europe Helpless Without U. S. Help, MacDonald Says at Conference

LAUSANNE, SWITZERLAND, June 17.—Europe cannot act alone but must have the help of the United States in solving the world's economic troubles, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain asserted today as the delegates of 13 nations opened a conference on reparations and war debts here.

Encourages Trade
"This is a time for bold proposals," he said. "The United States has encouraged us to believe it will cooperate in some of the wider problems and join us in devising a policy for the encouragement of trade and the enrichment of nations."

His address, after his election as chairman of the conference, was only one of major importance in a session which lasted a little over an hour. The continuing economic crisis, he said, is the worst with which the world has ever been afflicted. It amounts to a "world catastrophe."

Consider Debt Proposal
In preliminary private discussions last night the possibility of presenting the conference a request that the United States cancel all war debts was considered.

"The world looks to us," MacDonald continued in his keynote speech "as it has never looked to an international conference to find agreements to end the present distress."

"Europe cannot act alone. The United States has encouraged us to believe it will cooperate in some of the wider problems and join with us in devising a policy for the enrichment of nations."

Elkton Merchant Attacked by Dog

Alva Hawkins, proprietor of the Hawkins general store at Elkton is suffering from injuries sustained when he was attacked and bitten by a dog Tuesday afternoon. He is being given the Pasteur treatment.

Hawkins' right hand was badly torn by the dog before the animal could be beaten off.

The dog was lying asleep in front of the Hawkins store when Hawkins stepped outside to wait on a gasoline customer, the dog attacked him.

Lightning Strikes Pin On Golf Course

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—As Max R. Marston, former national golf champion, and W. Hamilton Gardner, of Buffalo, N. Y., were playing the final round for the Huntington Valley Country club links yesterday, a bolt of lightning struck the pin at the 18th hole, shattering the green.

Marston took the match on the 16th green, three up.

14 INDICTED BY GRAND JURY IN LISBON SECTION

28 Cases Examined During Special Gathering At County Court

SECRET BILL GIVEN, 12 CASES IGNORED

Defendants Will Appear Before Judge Lones Monday Morning

A special session of the grand jury returned 14 true bills at Lisbon late Wednesday afternoon after investigating 28 cases and examining 28 witnesses. Twelve cases were ignored, one was continued, and one was referred to probate court.

One secret indictment was returned.

Those who were indicted will be arraigned before Judge W. Frank Lones in No. 1 courtroom at 9 a. m. Monday. They are:

Joseph Slayzak, West Point, violated auto license law.

William Crawford, East Liverpool, robbery, Fred Pancake of $41.

Earl Jones, Tolman Gilbert and Guy Carson, East Liverpool, burglary and larceny poultry plant of Frank Armstrong.

Norman Duke, Leetonia, three indictments, charging larceny of three signal phone batteries from Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on three different dates, taking three batteries on each date of March 2, March 30 and April 13.

Lester Meehan, Lisbon, pointing firearms.

Burglary Charge
William Carney, East Liverpool, burglary dwelling of Frank Robinson.

William Carney, burglary gasoline station of Verne Carson.

LUTHER LEAGUES GATHER SUNDAY

Canton-Youngstown District to Hold Meeting In Minerva Church

Sunday afternoon approximately 200 young people representing 20 Luther Leagues of the Canton-Youngstown district will gather at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Minerva, Rev. L. M. Riggie, pastor, for their quarterly federation meeting.

Program Scheduled
The afternoon session will open at 2:45 p. m. with a short organ program by Forrest Kail. He will use as his opening numbers "Grand Chorus in C" by Maitland and "The Lost Chord" by Arthur S. Sullivan; for the afternoon offertory he will use "Chapel Bell" by Slagier in which piece considerable use of the organ chimes is made. For the postlude he will play "Spirit of the Hour" by Walter Johnson.

The opening song service will be in charge of Mrs. E. J. Hannans, St. Paul's choir director. Opening devotions will be conducted by Miss Carolyn Iden, Minerva. Miss Mirtie Ross of Salem will give a talk on "Federation Accomplishments and Objectives." A group of three anthems will be sung by St. Paul's Junior choir—"Be Thou Content" by Bach; "Comfort, O Lord the Soul of Thy Servant" by Crotch; and "Beautiful Savior" arranged by F. Melius Christiansen.

At the business of the day, the officers and committees will be reported on.

SENATE FINANCE GROUP OPPOSES BONUS PAYMENT

Leaders In Fight Report 14-2 Against Bill; Predict Defeat

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 16.—The $2,400,000,000 cash bonus bill was voted adversely today by the senate finance committee.

Defeated 14 to 2
First senators to emerge from the meeting said the vote was 14 to 2 against the bonus.

The bill will be reported immediately to the senate and an attempt made to get a vote there as soon as possible.

Leaders already were confident of a sufficient vote to kill the bill, but they were reassured by the size of the opposition committee vote.

Predict Defeat For Bill
But senatorial leaders were confident the ex-soldiers would meet swift disappointment. While the bonus seekers were launching their lobbying drive, the finance committee under Senator Smoot of Utah, met the act on the bill, proposing to report it without delay and with an adverse recommendation.

With unanimous consent, a session.

HOPE FLIER MAY STILL BE ALIVE

Japanese Fishing Boat Reports Seeing Strange Figure Which May Be Glen Brophy

MANILA, P. I., June 16.—Hope was revived today that Glenn Brophy, English flier who disappeared March 18, 1931, is alive among the pagan savages of Yami, northmost of the Philippine Islands.

A Japanese fishing boat and Filipinos reported a strange figure was signaling from the shore of the island. Strong currents, heavy waves and fear of the savages prevented small boats from approaching to investigate.

Brophy vanished between Macao, China, and Luzon, P. I., while on a flight from Shanghai to Manila.

Marton to Attend Soldiers' Reunion

LISBON, June 16.—Charles Marton of the Soldiers Relief commission of this county, has left for Louisville, Ky., to attend a reunion of the 16th Infantry of the First Division.

Enroute, Marton will visit the Soldiers and Sailors Orphans home at Xenia to arrange, if possible, the admission to that institution several children from this county. He will return here June 22.

County Bar Unit Honors Elliott

LISBON, June 16.—At a special meeting of the Columbiana County Bar Association held in No. 1 court room at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and which preceded the funeral of the late John M. Elliott, at the Bells Funeral Home, a memorial was adopted by the association, a copy of which was ordered by Judge W. F. Lones to be spread on the court journal.

President Lauded, Given Pledge of Loyalty by Party

Californian Chosen as Party's Standard Bearer In Walkaway Race; Selection of Running-Mate To Close Convention

BULLETIN
(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 16.—President Hoover was renominated almost without opposition today by the Republican national convention.

In a first ballot, walkaway endorsement, Mr. Hoover received from a cheering party convulse a reaffirmation of the grant of leadership voted him four years ago at Kansas City.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Herbert Hoover was pictured as the "ideal standard bearer of the Republican party" today by Joseph L. Scott of California in nominating his old friend for the presidency.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO STADIUM, June 16.—Its prohibition dispute settled at last in favor of a resubmission plank, the Republican convention turned its final session today into a noisy demonstration of loyalty to President Hoover.

Reassembling heavy eyed and with lagging step after the night meeting which had kept the sizzling words of the prohibition debate flying until after 1 a. m., the delegates soon picked up enthusiasm under the urge of music and exhortation, as the convention proceeded swiftly to a Hoover renomination.

Scott told the delegates to the Republican national convention that the president was a "past master in that greatest of all branches of engineering that I like to think of as 'human engineering.'"

Asks Consideration
Mr. Hoover was described as a "man who has given and is giving his time, his energy, his whole being to service in behalf of his fellowman."

Scott urged his hearers to reflect upon the trials, tribulations and the spirit of the pioneers in this country.

"We have an illustrious example of such a spirit—the spirit of one who, through the last long gruelling four years has stood at the helm as ancing, of unemployment, and of relief."

Scott said that in these days of "stark communism and ill starred militarism, we had better renew our course by the fixed stars of the eternal principle that fundamentally must live and will live, with God's help, we do our full duty."

"The president's life," the Californian said, "typifies the spiritual values" and "exemplifies the undaunted courage of the real American sprung from the grass roots of the nation."

Delays Roll Call
Chairman Snell cut a corner by not ordering the roll call of the roll for nominations for President.

He merely announced the time for receiving nominations had arrived, and recognized Joseph L. Scott of Los Angeles, picked weeks ago to make the nominating speech for President Hoover.

The convention gave Scott a big hand as he appeared at the edge of the platform. His big voice carried out to the far corners of the stadium.

He was applauded time after time as he proceeded, but the really big demonstration was reserved for the end of the speech.

ANOTHER CONVENTION

This being the convention season it is not amiss to remember that delegates are roaring and steaming in Geneva, too. But they have been at it so long that the gallery, where seats never did command a price is empty and bare. Vainly do they try to beat up interest in what they are doing, reluctant to admit to themselves that their show is a "bust."An article from Geneva appearing recently in the New York Times sets forth the reasons for the prevailing frustration of the disarmament conference. Written not in terms of national policies and thundering statistics, but more understandably in terms of the human beings concerned with the business of the conference, it shows all too plainly the strong undercurrent of jealousies and conflicting ambitions against which the delegates are struggling in an upstream swim to attain a goal which they cannot see—which no one ever has seen.Still, it cannot be said that it has been with deliberate purpose that the Geneva conference has been bogged down in meaningless conflict. The problem confronted was so huge in itself that the humans assigned to divide it into comprehensible portions were as so many mice seeking to attack an elephant.
A comparison that might be better, because elephants are said to be in-mortal terror of anything so small as a mouse.So, while the delegates at Geneva labor endlessly to keep themselves from being swept away in the flood of their own oratory and other delegates at Chicago go seriously about their task of ratifying details of party business which were conceived and could better be executed without their too willing assistance, observers in all directions will be pardon for wondering if there may not be a better way to serve the people than by depending on endless opinions endlessly argued.

BEST AND WORST

Sentencing Gaston B. Means to 15 years imprisonment for his unscrupulous and criminal plan to turn the Lindbergh kidnaping incident into another money maker for himself is a suitable climax to the chequered career of a remarkable man. His cool, sharp cunning will be dulled, perhaps, by a few years of reflection on the tactics which finally proved his undoing.Unlike John Hughes Curtis, who also sought to turn human emotion into profit for himself, Means' offense was not surprising. Now, as when it was revealed that he had swindled Mrs. Evalyn Walsh Mc-Lean of $104,000 in the pretense of recovering the Lindbergh child, the public reaction is one of wonder that he could have been considered trustworthy by anyone familiar with his exploits."The Lindbergh case brought out all the best in the hearts of men," said the judge who sentenced Means, "but also gave the opportunity to some to display the weakness and wickedness of human nature." What would be a better motto to hang in the cell of Gaston
B. Means?

What Others Say

FICTION TRENDS

Readers of fiction are a fickle lot and their choices apparently run in definite cycles. According to an editor of the Publishers' Weekly there is decided trend at this time toward "Westerns" and away from mystery stories. Only a few years ago the reverse of this was true and stories involving the detection of crime were among the best sellers. No reason is assigned for the present popularity of the Western thrillers other than that they probably are a revival of the kind of reading tastes that took us through the dime novel era. However, we emerged from this period in American literature without any marked injury to the race and is likely that the present vogue for novels about the great open spaceswill do not harm to this generation of readers in spite of the fact that writers generally have sought to surround the West with a bloody halo that is greatly exaggerated.
A veteran writer of "Westerns" takes the public into his confidence to this extent:"A new school of writers has given us a bloodier West. If this crime wave of fiction continues, some one is liable to believe these boys—they may even believe themselves. The result up to date is a division among our readers. Some are game to swallow anything, even the myth that in those days to kill a man was a huge joke. The other and wiser class has developed a wearied cynicism concerning anything they read about the West."And so it goes with the ever changing tastes of the reading public. While the West is enjoying a literary comeback, mystery, gang and war stories have gone backwards in popularity. Although the West of today is generally as peaceful and quiet as any other part of the country people still get a kick out of reading about things that never happen.—Toledo Times.

serious dramatic roles are frequently called upon to preserve decorum under trying circumstances. Any number of plots to evoke laughter during tense scenes has kept entire companies in hot water. There, for instance, was the trap set for Bert Lytell.He was appearing in a skit—The Valiant—at vaudeville's Vaudeville,
The Palace. A group of 12 friends were seeing him from the front row. There is an agonizing moment when Lytell as a condemned prisoner looks out at the audience just before walking to the gallows.It is the betrayal of a soul in torment, steeling himself for a hero's death. When Lytell gazed out he caught sight of 12 fiery red mustaches of the handle-bar variety attached to as many lips. He did not give way to a spurt of hilarity until he reached the wings. But he could not take a curtain call.The late Cyril Maude, on the opening night of an American engagement, noticed two London cronies in a stage box in full evening dress. A curtain screened them from the audience. When he looked at them again, during a scene alone

the end of the first act Errol announced that among celebrity vis-appliances were worn with little if any relief, and in severe cases operation was advised. In this operation the veins were actually removed from the leg, and the patient remained an invalid for many weeks and required a good deal of attention. Operative scars resulted, which were unsightly, and were sources of pain, particularly on damp days.It is not necessary to go to a hospital under the present method of treatment. It is given in the doctor's office, and the patient can return to his work. It leaves no scars or other permanent discomforts.

Treatments are given at weekly intervals, and the time required for a complete cure depends upon the extent of the trouble.In this treatment a substance called a "sclerosing agent" is injected directly into the vein, and produces hardening and collapse of the distended vein. Various substances have been used for this purpose, but glucose, sodium sali-cylate, quinine and urethane have given the most satisfactory results.Varicose veins are unduly large and swollen veins. The local circulation of blood is slow, because there is a loss of elasticity in the afflicted vein. This condition is most frequently found in stout persons, particularly those who stand on their feet for any length of time. Some persons are much more liable to this condition than others, and it is believed by some authorities that the tendency is hereditary, for it is frequently found in several in the same family.The disturbance is often observed in pregnancy, when marked increase in weight and the pressure placed on the veins cause them toswell, to lose their elasticity and to become varicose. These veins should never be treated during the period of pregnancy, for the complaint is likely to disappear after childbirth without any treatment.In certain cases varicose veins should not receive the injection treatment. For example, it should never be given if "phlebitis," or inflammation of the veins, is present.
Such cases should wait at least six months until the acute inflammation has subsided. Persons with advanced heart and kidney disease should not be subjected to this treatment. If diabetes is present the injection method can be given, provided the patient is on a diet and receiving insulin, if necessary.Answers to Health Queries

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY CONVIC-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady," and her guest, Christine Quirens are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He, however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, became hysterical at the mention of Basil, calling her daughter a beast and saying Lola never loved him. Edward Quirens, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had heart failure caused by the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite! Mrs. Baldwin reveals that she knew her husband was involved with Lola.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

A moment later she was gone. Instantly Colt turned to Marshall. "You have been tailing Doctor Baldwin?"

"Yes, Mr. Commissioner."

"What have you got to report?"

"Very little, sir. Lieutenant Fallon put me on the job when the doctor left here last night. He got down the elevator in front of me and I was afraid I'd missed him but the elevator operator told me he had got off at the second floor house of his office. So I came back to the second floor and prowled around a bit. There was a light in the office. I could see it through the glass pane. So I pretended to be a drunk and rapped on the door. And I asked the doc if he could give me something to straighten me out before I went home to the wife. When he came to the door, he looked awful mad. He had a wild look in his eyes and his hands were shaking. And he told me to get the hell out of here. So I thought that was all right."

"I beat it downstairs with Deems, that's my partner, and I put him on the servants' entrance. There is only the two ways you can get out of this joint, the front door or the servants' entrance. So then I went over and saw the superintendent of the house across the street and he fixed me up with this uniform. So I stands there all morning and about ten o'clock the doc came out. I blew the whistle—Baldwin thought I was calling a cab but my partner knew it was a signal, so Deems came and he began to tail the doc. Pretty soon I see Deems bringing the doc back, and I ask him where he went."

"Well, he has a pretty funny story to tell. The doc went to the corner and got in a cab and Deems in another cab right after him. They drove across town, through the transverse, under Central Park and over to West End Avenue to an apartment house on the corner of Seventy-second Street. But Baldwin didn't go in. He got out of the cab and meets a man, a little dark-complexioned fellow. The man gave him a box and the doc gave him some money. Then he gets back into the cab and drives back to the corner of Third Avenue where he gets out of the cab and walks over here."

"You can get out of that uniform now," said Colt, when the detective came to a full pause.

Marshall clicked his heels together.

"Don't you need me any further, chief?"

"Need you any further? You made a mess of your job, Marshall. If you had stuck with Deems, one of you could have followed the little dark man and the other kept after Baldwin. You both should be demoted to patrolmen and sent to Staten Island for this. Now get out of that uniform and report back at your station house. No wonder the newspapers say the police don't know their business."

When the crestfallen Marshall had left the apartment, Colt went to the telephone and called Plaza 3-7925, the apartment of Lola Carewe. While he was waiting, he remarked to me that the small dark man was undoubtedly the Spanish Dealer who had sold Baldwin the insects. A moment later he was talking to Inspector Flynn, who had told Colt he would meet him there.

In a few brisk sentences, Colt broke the news to the Inspector. Even though I was unable to listen in, I could hear the grunt of surprise from the Assistant Chief Inspector when he learned of the third tragedy. He promised to put a call through to Headquarters at once for Multooler and the other department agencies. But to this Colt demurred.

"Get Multooler," he sanctioned, "but keep the rest away for a while—until we know what we are looking for."

"Okay, chief. Do you want me down there?"

Colt reflected for a moment and then delayed his answer as he asked: "Is Mrs. Carewe awake?"

"Not yet."

"You are sure she is perfectly all right?"

"Sleeping sound as a dollar, sir, so are they all, the maid and the butler, each in a separate room, snoring in a different key."

Colt's brows were still furrowed. "It sounds silly, I suppose," he reflected aloud, "but I am afraid to let you out of that house, Flynn. We've had three sudden deaths since we came into this case—we've got to see that Mrs. Carewe is protected."

"I'll stick on the job until I hear from you."

"All right."

As he hung up the receiver, Colt turned again to the private office where lay the body of Doctor Baldwin. Then he began his slow, meticulous search. At first glance, he found nothing extraordinary. The office was like the ordinary consultation room of any successful physician in a modern building. There was neither taste nor distinction in its equipment. It was all as utilitarian and efficient as any unimaginative office supply firm could make it, with sectional bookcases, steel waste basket, and a steel desk.

The only incongruous note in all the dull, twentieth-century stream-line atmosphere of the place was the distorted question mark of a body twisted and dead on the floor.

What had happened to Baldwin? The manner of his taking off would no give me any rest. Again and again the riddle broke across my mind like dark waves spilling on a beach.

Marshall had said that Doctor Baldwin was alone in the office, when the detective, playing drunk, had walked in. In spite of his faults, Marshall was a faithful and accurate observer, yet even with faithful and accurate observation, could we believe his report? Had not Colt himself faithfully and accurately observed all the possible hiding-places in Lola's pent-house? Yet with guards at all the entrances, Death had got by unseen, had swept through unnoticed and left its beautiful victims contorted on the floor. And the agent, the instrumentality of Death, had got away too, under the noses of all of our observation and accuracy. Only in Baldwin's case had we found the dead scorpion. Was it not possible, then, that unknown to Marshall and unknown to Doctor Baldwin, someone had hidden in these rooms also, waiting to turn Death loose—loose out of its box—out of that container which Colt had said must have been used?

Or was it the box which the small dark man had given to Baldwin? Had it concealed the scorpion? Had Baldwin been the victim of an accident or of a trick? Or had he deliberately let it loose?

These and a dozen other questions filled my mind as I watched Thatcher Colt begin his investigation into the third death of this baffling series. Perhaps the same questions filled the chief's mind too but if so, he did not, at that time, act upon them. His interests were following a different path altogether—some unknown path the chart to which he kept to himself. I stood, my back against the closed door, while Thatcher Colt knelt again beside the body.

First he began a deliberate search of the pockets. The doctor was still in his dinner jacket and only a hasty search was necessary. As a result, Thatcher Colt turned over to me a silver cigarette case engraved with the initials, "H. B.," a box of matches, theater ticket stubs from the Hudson Theater, seats J 1 and 3, right, some loose silver, a ring of keys and a small leather pocketbook containing $300, in bank notes.

I took charge of all of this miscellany with the exception of the set of keys, which Colt examined with curiosity. Most of them were not difficult to identify—keys for the ignition and door of an automobile, keys to a safety deposit box, a flat brass key, evidently to the front door of an apartment, and larger ones of the same pattern which Colt demonstrated belonged to the office. There remained one key which Colt isolated from the others, and held aloft between his thumb and forefinger, studying the irregular pattern of its shank with intensified interest. A grim smile fluttered over his strong lips and vanished, as he said:

"I'll keep this myself, Tony. You can have it later."

Then thrusting the ring jinglingly into his own pocket he resumed his search, beginning methodically with the top of the desk, and working down the right-hand stack of drawers and up the left.

Here again we started on what seemed a dreary unpromising search. With that worship of the fashion so characteristic of business and professional Americans, the top of Doctor Baldwin's desk was scrupulously bare. All the tools for using a desk were there: pen and ink-well, prescription pad and blotter, but that was all. The desk's vast expanse of leather over steel stretched away from the empty chair like a desert.

In the top drawer at the right, there was the same neatness. A drinking glass, a towel, a piece of soap in a box, and a supply of clean handkerchiefs. The second drawer was entirely empty. The third was a much deeper drawer, with a false front that would make one believe there were two instead of one. It contained three unopened boxes of cigars, no doubt Christmas presents from grateful patients.

As I made an inventory in my notebook, I asked myself if anything less personal could be imagined. A man's desk is his most intimate article of furniture, closer to him than a cradle to a baby. Yet Doctor Baldwin had seemed to leave not the slightest trace of his individuality upon his magnificent desk.

Social Affairs

TRAVELERS CLUB

Numbered among the enjoyable social functions of the week was the annual picnic luncheon of the Travelers club Tuesday at the Salem Country club west of the city. Ninety-four were in attendance, members and their guests.

The affair was in charge of a committee composed of Miss Myra Erwin, Miss Isabel Mullins, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. Percy Tucker, Mrs. George W. Bunn and Miss Doris Chandler.

Mrs. W. E. Bunn gave an interesting review of the book, "The Three Godfathers." Mrs. Lowell W. King sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Paul Cover, Mrs. R. G. Alexander of Elkhardt, Ind., entertained with two whistling solos, with Mrs. Cover at the piano. Mrs. Cover contributed a piano solo.

Miss Eugenia Sulist, retiring president, presented the gavel to Mrs. William Silver, president for the 1932-33 season.

Among the guests were: Mrs. C. L. Smith and Mrs. Dan Ruff of Aurora; Mrs. W. H. Koll of Washington; Mrs. J. R. Thomas of Aurora; Miss Estella Mayrhofer and Mrs. Richard Lamont of Alliance.

GUILD GIVES PARTIES

The Harriet Watt guild of the Church of Our Saviour sponsored two card parties Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Fred Smith, East State st.

The home was made attractive with garden flowers. At the afternoon party bridge was played. Mrs. Russell Smith received the prize. Mrs. John Stratton was awarded the door prize. Mrs. Rebecca Davis Travis of Chicago, was among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Springer won the prizes offered at bridge at the evening party. The "500" prizes were captured by Miss Mary Burson and Frank Bierly. Refreshments were served.

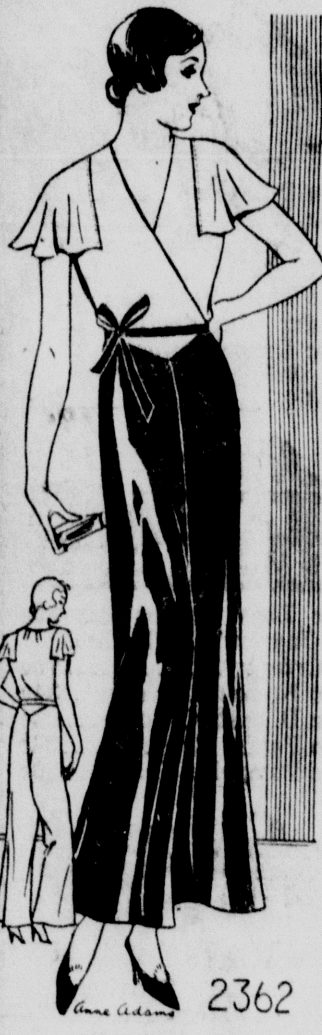

CARD PARTY

Prizes were awarded and lunch was served at the card party given by Salem chapter No. 68, Women of the Mooseheart legion, Wednesday evening at the hall, East State st.

In the "500" games the winners were Mrs. William Carlisle, Merton Warner, Mrs. Zella McGaffie and Richard Gidly. Euchre trophies were claimed by Mrs. Margaret Harding, R. Stoffer, Mrs. Leider of Salem, and Ray Stoffer of North Georgetown.

This was the final benefit card party of the season.

STATE TO OPEN BIDS JULY 16

Improvement of Highway Near Wellsville Is Being Planned

LISBON, June 16.—Bids for the improvement of the Lincoln highway between Kensington and the Columbiana-Stark county line, a distance of 6.83 miles, and for the improvement of State Route No. 7, or the Ohio River road between Wellsville and the intersection of the Wellsville-Irontone road will be opened by the state highway department at Columbus July 15, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

Improvement of the Lincoln highway in this county, beginning at Kensington, has been estimated at $145,000 with concrete, 20 feet in width. It will require three months to complete this project.

The state highway department also proposes to award the contract for the reconstruction of the Cox highway between Salem and Westville, a distance of nearly five miles, at an early date.

Only a small amount of grading is to be done on the Cox highway and the Lincoln highway projects, and because of this fact contractors will be in a position to complete both projects early in the fall.

Duce Escort to a Queen

Here is evidence that the "Iron Man," Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, can unbend upon occasion and become a courtly cavalier. He Duce is shown with Queen Helena of Italy, on one of the very rare occasions on which they have been photographed together. The photo was made during the recent services to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of Garibaldi's death in Rome. A monument to the wife of the national hero was unveiled at the Gianicolo as a feature of the celebrations.

Relative of Salem Residents Invents New-Type Air Craft

Dr. Cloyd L. Snyder of South Bend, Ind., who has invented a wingless and fuselage-less aircraft he calls a "dirigiplane", which was demonstrated recently at the municipal airport in South Bend, is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Luty of Salem.

The dirigiplane, features of which Dr. Snyder announced a few months ago, after he had worked with small models for more than five years, is a craft of radical design. Yet it is much simpler than any of the conventional types of airplanes, the inventor said.

It consists simply of a single broad foil, to which is attached tail fins. Wings and fuselage, as they are known in present day planes, with their necessary struts, braces and other accessories increasing wind resistance are done away with. Everything, including the plane's motors will be enclosed in this foil, which gives the craft the appearance of a devil fish.

Since making the first announcement about his new type craft, Dr. Snyder has built a non-powered dirigiplane, large enough to carry a pilot weighing 200 pounds. It has all the controls of a regular ship.

This craft was demonstrated recently at the airport in South Bend. It has already been in the air 32 times and its performance is as exceptional as its appearance, Dr. Snyder says.

When "cut off" in the air the ship can be controlled by the pilot the same as a powered craft. It can be landed quickly or slowly. In tests given it so far, the plane has shown a remarkable facility for landing at a slow speed and stopping in short order. It has been successfully landed at five miles an hour.

Color In An Old House

"What will we do with this ancient cottage, which we can't make completely over?" asked Margy, who with her small family spends each summer at one of those old houses in the country that are now so much in demand. "The outdoors is grand," she went on, "but the musty old rockers and marble-topped tables that came with the place aren't exactly cheerful, although they're quaint and old."

The answer depends on how much labor is available, and it needn't be skilled labor. Pots of paint and plenty of cretone in lively colors can work wonders. Sometimes old chairs, when scraped, reveal beautifully grained woodwork. A gay cretone cushion and valance, and a back to match, will soften the chair's outlines and make it a really attractive piece. Old sofas and bulky armchairs can be rejuvenated by covering with flowered chintz, cretone or block linen.

Windows in these quaint old houses, because of awkward size or placing, may involve a little home carpentry, but the result is well worth the trouble. Shelves can be built all around a barelooking window. One ambitious householder went so far as to build bookcases below the sill and around the two sides, forming a sort of bay window, with window seat and cupboard effect. The side shelves were used for books, while the closed shelves below the window held china.

If glass curtains are preferred, because of light and air, a colorful effect can be obtained by painting the window trim with a bright contrasting color.

One north room, lighted by two small windows, was given new warmth when the sill and window trim were painted a Chinese red, in vivid contrast with the cream walls.

The summer home gives scope for experiment in home decoration, and many amateur interior decorators have done strikingly effective things with daring colors and strange fabrics.

killed one-quarter of Europe's population? That would mean a million and a half dead in Greater New York, hundreds of thousands in Chicago, 30,000,000 throughout the United States.

LENIN'S IDEAS will not rule here, Lincoln's name will not be rubbed out, and this country will not lose its freedom, for a while, even if it does have to give half its annual income to national and local government taxes.

The people themselves and individuals chosen by them may have to use their brains and do something. But that will not be such a terrible calamity.

ABOUT PROHIBITION, it is certain that the eighteenth amendment will not leave the constitution. That would require votes of 36 states and you could not get 36.

Some suggest "nullification," living under prohibition, paying no attention to it. But that would mean living on a bootleg basis, millions of Americans drinking poisonous concoctions of bootleggers and stuff even worse, made at home.

ONE WAY out might be acceptable. The prohibition amendment says intoxicating liquor must not be made or sold and orders congress to prevent it. The Volstead "one-half of one per cent" act, is the law now.

PERHAPS THAT could be charged to read that things intoxicating, within each state, are such things as the state itself declares to be intoxicating. If Wisconsin says that 5 per cent beer is not intoxicating, 5 per cent beer becomes legal in Wisconsin.

If California says 12 per cent wine is not intoxicating, California may drink that wine legally, and so through the list of states.

THE DIFFICULTY is that the Republican party, while it feels compelled to throw some kind of a sop to the wet Cerebus, doesn't like Cerebus, and wishes it could throw him a sop dipped in carbolic acid.

The Republican party knows that the prohibition movement is its annex, packed with votes. And while here and there some Republicans are as wet as the cave of th winds, the heart of the Republican party is dry.

IT IS interesting to study faces of delegates gathered in long rows. The majority, smiling, seem to say, "this may be somebody's funeral, but not mine."

THE FACES are those of temperance men and women, keen, intelligent faces. Somebody says "there is no genius in them." But if another young Bonaparte sat under the New Mexico banner, the same person would ask, "Who let in that queer little Mexican, is he really a delegate?"

And if Marconi, or Edison, or Newton himself sat there in modern clothes, no one would question the statement "they come from Kansas."

WE RARELY recognize genius or exceptional ability until we see it in history books. In the writings of Leonardo da Vinci, greatest intellect of his day, you find no mention of Columbus, although that navigator crossed the Atlantic and came back while Leonardo was in his prime. He could not see Columbus' greatness. Columbus would not have seen him.

Hubby Spanks Her, She Asks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 16. — Mrs. Harry K. Bally played contract with her husband but, she told a judge, she didn't contract for a spanking.

"I didn't play the way he wanted," she said. "So he turned me over his knee and spanked me." She got her divorce.

MARKETS

TRADING DULL, STOCKS DROP

Resistance to Increases Develops On Market; Auburn Up, Sags

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 16.—Some resistance to further advances developed in early stock market transactions today, but trading was dull on the narrow reaction. Fractional losses, after a steady opening, appeared in American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, American Can, Case, Westinghouse and Public Service of New Jersey. Auburn, opening unchanged, jumped 4 to 11½, a new high for the movement, and then lost its rise. A few preferred stocks rallied.

ate vote on the legislation could be had immediately otherwise at least a day would have to elapse. But, claiming a big margin against the bill, administration leaders appeared willing to get the issue out of the way, to kill the bill and spare the necessity of President exercising his promised veto.

So enthusiastic were the bonus marchers at the 211 to 178 vote by which the house passed the bill yesterday, that they withstood without great demoralization a fresh downpour which last night drenched their ramshackle, open air encampments. Their leaders not only belittled police reports of numerous desertions but claimed new contingents were arriving to swell their ranks past the 20,000 mark.

In groups organized by states, they tackled the senatorial offices today with ardor.

G. O. P. AGAIN NAMES HOOVER

Republicans Renominate President To Lead Party

California, with a front seat just to the left of the chairman, set it off. When Scott concluded with an oratorical flourish, saving the name of Hoover, after custom, until the last, his fellow Californians came to their feet and cheered.

Most of the delegates over the whole convention floor joined in the parade which circled the vast enclosure, shouting while a band and the thunder-throated pipe organ alternated with the music, starting with "California, Here I Come."

Every state standard was in line before the demonstration had reached its climax with the release of the thousands of colored toy balloons. The delegates raised their voices in a higher burst of approbation as the little bubbles floated down, and were batted about by those on the floor below.

By that time the demonstration had been on for some 20 minutes and still was going strong.

Display Hoover's Pictures

In the midst of it all the Hoover men tried to get the throng interested in some talking pictures of the president, thrown on special white screens at either ends of the hall. But the lights weren't working properly, and the marchers wouldn't be quiet.

All that appeared on the screen was a pale and hardly recognizable portrait of a hardly recognizable gentleman, speaking a speech nobody could hear.

Half an hour after the demonstration began, Chairman Smith pounded for order. Slowly the state standards were returned to their places and the convention got under way with its other business.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 16.—Republicans embarked on the 1932 campaign today anxiously pondering the effect of the unparalleled wet and dry set-to over adoption of the party's new prohibition revision stand.

Many Vote For Repeal

A militant drive for repeal stirred the national convention to its most spectacular platform battle of years last night and showed more than a third of the delegates for this position. There were 472 votes for such a stand and 681 against.

President Hoover's personal lieutenants who beat off this attack from the convention floor were not exulting over victory but were attempting to gauge the reaction of the prohibition forces who passively helped them down the repealists.

They were trying to fathom the anti-prohibitionist reaction also. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, of California, a front line worker for the Hoover dry campaign of 1928, sat silent on the first row during last night's struggle.

Idaho Opposes Both Planks

Idaho, home state of Senator Borah, the champion of the Hoover cause four years ago, defiantly announced its opposition to both the administration and the repeal planks.

Hoover-hearted endorsement of the Hoover leadership and a stinging demand for party regularity in congress were accepted in the new Republican platform to the accompaniment of hundreds of ringing palms.

It was the prohibition plank, declaring against flat repeal of the eighteenth amendment but calling upon congress for a substitute providing federal control of the liquor traffic, which made everything else unimportant to most of the delegates for the time being.

Wary from almost 36 hours of constant work on the party's policies for 1932, the bespectacled James R. Garfield, son of the late president, read the planks to the restless convention. Loud cheers and loud boos interrupted announcement of the resubmission as Garfield concluded, the tall, silver-haired Senator Bingham of Connecticut, opened the wet attack with a demand for submission of prohibition to the states for repeal. The majority in the galleries and many on the floor were with him and shouted it.

2-Hour Debate Granted

Two hours of debate were granted the President's leaders—Garfield, Secretary Mills and John L. McNab, California—rallied the convention against the repealers headed by Bingham and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of New York. If the verdict had been on cheering alone, the latter would have won.

couragement of trade and the enrichment of nations."

"Ominous Crisis"

"We meet under the shadow of the most ominous economic crisis which ever afflicted the world in time of peace," Mr. MacDonald said. "The whole world looks to us as it never has looked to us at an international conference before."

"The world looks on not only in need but in impatience. My appeal to you is to fear nothing but weakness, to issue bold proposals which by their very character will command the support of the whole world."

"In these times there is no Italy, no Germany, no America, no Britain apart from the rest of the nations. There is nothing smaller than a world, nothing less than a system which is crumbling around our feet. None of us can stay out of the miseries which are gathering about us."

As the prime minister spoke the delegates listened closely. Reparations, said Mr. MacDonald, made a substantial beginning, but "statesmanship must go further than that."

"If it is proved that we have been pursuing policies in violation of the simple economic laws which govern the prosperity of the state, wisdom and common sense surely will compel us to return to better ways without delay and to pay the temporary price which such a return will exact from us."

"I believe it can be done," he paused, then repeated slowly, "I believe it can be done, if we have the clear vision and the steady nerve to do it."

Plan County Rally
A rally of the Young Peoples branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union in Columbiana county will be held in July at Columbiana.

Members of the Salem branch were invited to the rally at a picnic supper for the Salem and Columbiana branches Wednesday evening at Centennial park.

There were 35 at the supper, members of the two organizations and their guests. Most of the program for the event was given by the Salem branch which will hold its next meeting on July 21.

Orchardists Gather
Prof. C. S. Holland of Ohio State university, Columbus, gave a talk at a meeting of orchardists Wednesday afternoon at the orchard of W. H. Matthews, north of Salem. Prof. Holland's talk was along the line of fruit thinning and orchard management.

Fifty orchardists from Columbiana and Mahoning counties attended the meeting.

BANDITS BATTLE CHICAGO POLICE

Man Slain, Woman and 2 Others Wounded In Roadhouse Fight

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 16.—One man was killed and a young woman, a robber and a highway policeman were wounded early today when police and bandit pistols blazed at The Dells, suburban Morton Grove roadhouse.

Four hundred patrons, many clad in evening clothes, ran for cover as the band of robbers, said to number nine in all, staged their raid. The place was in semi-darkness, illuminated only by a spotlight to the music of a popular orchestra.

Three of the robbers, police said, made their way unobserved to the gambling section of the roadhouse and scooped up thousands of dollars. As they were leaving, roadhouse guards detected them and opened fire. Fred Pacelli, 35, a guest was fatally wounded and his companion, Miss Marjorie Bruce, 27, shot in the thigh in this exchange. In the confusion, someone called Morton Grove highway police and they arrived in time to block the escape of the raiders, six of whom had remained outside on guard. In a furious pistol and shotgun battle that followed one of the bandits, Roy Marshank, 33, was shot in the abdomen and captured. The others fled.

Samuel Lucas, county highway policeman, was slightly wounded in the right ankle. The robbers molested none of the guests.

Mansfield Veteran Heads G. A. R. Unit

LIMA, June 16.—A Mansfield Civil war veteran, S. Finn Bell, was Ohio commander of the Grand Army of the Republic today. He was elected here yesterday at the army's annual encampment, succeeding Ayres B. Adams of Cincinnati.

At their own request, 200 veterans, despite their advanced years, marched to the music of a life and drum corps for a short distance, in the parade which followed the election. Gov. George White and other reviewing officers looked on.

Other new officers chosen were Charles R. McDarrd of Urbana, senior vice commander; M. C. Boice of Cheshire, junior vice commander; the Rev. H. J. Becker of Dayton, chaplain; Dr. A. B. Garrett of Gallipolis, medical director; and Miss Lida Lucas of Columbus, secretary.

The encampment will end today. Next year's will be held at Newark.

World Trade Again Possible With Gold

NEW YORK, June 16.—Bankers say that with the possible exception of Germany every leading nation now has a sufficient supply of gold bullion to enter into a revived world trade when that revival comes.

Since mid-September, 1931, the United States has returned $1,000,000,000 of gold to Europe, gold that belonged to Europe but had been placed in safe-keeping here. Simultaneously, the 13 principal European nations have increased their holdings of gold by about the same amount.

Allowing for minor adjustments, and an exception in Germany's case, each nation now has its full supply of gold tucked away in the vaults of its central bank. There remains only a meagre smattering of foreign balances—mostly British—in this country which can be recalled.

Human Body's Value Slumps to 31 Cents

HAMILTON, ONT., June 16.—The cash value of the material in the human body has slumped 31 cents. "In war days," said Dr. C. H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., "the value of our bodies was estimated at 98 cents. But I suppose at present low prices, we are worth about 67 cents."

AIMEE HUTTON REPORTED ILL

Doctors Differ Over Illness Suffered by Noted Evangelist

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, is reported critically ill but two physicians differ in their diagnosis of her condition.

Dr. C. McKenzie Jones told the city health department the evangelist is suffering from typhoid fever.

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams said she is suffering from neurasthenia. He declared there is no evidence of typhoid fever.

The quarantine officer of the health department announced tests would be made today by the department to determine whether she has contracted the fever.

Mrs. Hutton was removed from an Ocean Park hotel to a sanitarium on a stretcher last night. So serious is her condition regarded by Dr. Williams he refused to allow her husband, David Hutton, to see her.

THIEF ATTACKS GIRARD WOMAN

Mrs. Stella Quinn, 30, Is In Serious Condition; Hit with Flashlight

GIRARD, June 16.—Mrs. Stella Quinn, 30, is in a serious condition at her home 111 Gordon st., suffering from hysteria and shock as a result of a brutal attack at 2 a. m. today when a man broke into her home and slugged her in semi-consciousness.

Mrs. Quinn told police that she was awakened by a noise at the rear door. Later a man appeared on the stairs carrying a flashlight. Entering Mrs. Quinn's bedroom, the man grappled with the woman and finally struck her on the ear with the flashlight. After the attack the man fled, Mrs. Quinn reported.

Neighbors, hearing her screams, rushed Mrs. Quinn to a doctor's office. Six stitches were required to close a gash on the side of her head. When police arrived, no trace of the man could be found. The electric switch had been pulled out in the cellar.

The woman's husband, Frank Quinn, left for work in the McDonald mills at midnight.

A description of the man was sent to all surrounding cities at 4 a. m. Niles police arrested a man who is being held at Girard for questioning.

Perfect Record In Safety Is Made By Foundry In Salem

Among foundries reporting perfect safety records for six months in the Ohio Foundries association state-wide safety campaign, conducted by Robert Holerman, secretary, is the Quaker City Foundry company of Salem.

Salem is eighth in the list of no accident cities having a record of 21,549 man hours worked without an accident.

Hubbard heads the list of no accident cities with a record of 111,757 man hours without an accident. Coshocton is next with 110,551 and Alliance third with 64,679.

In the list of cities reporting accidents, Mansfield tops list with 202,887 man hours per accident. Newcomerstown is second with 159,949 and Massillon is third with 69,097. Columbus is ninth with 39,603 and Cincinnati twelfth with 32,753.

"BROKEN WING" with Lupe Velez, Mervyn Douglas and Leo Carrillo in starring roles, plays today only at the State.

The story of a young aviator, whose plane is wrecked when it drops into a peaceful Spanish town and whose memory is lost from the shock, is well told. The aviator, played very well by Douglas who was opposite Ann Harding in "Prestige," is loved by Miss Velez who in turn is loved by the jovial but dangerous Carrillo. When Carrillo becomes aware of the girl's love for the American he orders the latter to be shot. The climax is exciting.

The film is well directed and holds the audience's attention until the very finish.

COMING ATTRACTIONS show for the State's feature Friday and Saturday, Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s new film "It's Tough to Be Famous."

It concerns the trials and tribulations besetting a young naval officer suddenly catapulted to national fame as a result of his heroism in the line of duty. Even before he regains consciousness after a hair-bread escape from death in the hold of a sunken submarine from which he had already released his subordinates via the torpedo tubes, he has been hailed by the newspapers and the public.

A quiet and unassuming youth, his private life is made public, his marriage to a childhood sweetheart becomes a matter for the newspapers and magazines, and his life is made generally miserable, to the extent that he eventually seeks oblivion after a reconciliation with his wife, estranged as a result of too much interference in their lives. The large supporting cast includes Mary Brian, Walter Catlett, Oscar Apfel, David Dandau, Emma Dunn, Lillian Bond and many others equally well-known to film audiences.

Sharkey, Schmeling Give Impressive Exhibitions In Training

THE DAY IN SPORTS

SHARKEY VS. SCHMELING
GOB'S FUTURE UNCERTAIN
SHARKEY MAY SURPRISE

NOBODY knows, not even Jack Sharkey himself what that fistic veteran's future will be after his second battle with Herr Max Schmeling, scheduled in New York next Tuesday night.

Sharkey, one of the most disliked and most unfortunate personages ever involved in heavyweight boxing, has made plenty of money and, moreover, has shown unprecedented good judgment, for a fighter in saving plenty of it.

He has a grand mansion in a Boston suburb, has an excellent home with wife and youngsters, and it is well known that he would like very much to emulate John Joseph Tunney by retiring from the ring as heavyweight champion of the world.

There is no denying the fact that Sharkey detests the hullabaloo that attends preparations for a major fight. He was all but sand-bagged before he would go through many of his publicity motions and demurred at throwing the first steam shovel of concrete into the new Madison Square Garden bowl.

Sharkey, now but 30 years old, is probably the most temperamental fighter in history. When his appearances before fight crowds are greeted with applause he beams as glibly as a prelude scrapper being handed his first ovation. He winces like a much hurt to when jeers are heard.

WHETHER SHARKEY, one of the most erratic and unreliable in-and-outers in the business, a champion one day, a bum the next, can defeat Schmeling is doubted. Schmeling is certainly not the best battler in the world but neither is Sharkey. Personally we would like to see the loquacious Gob win the title from the German who never yet has done anything more than knock out John Risko and W. L. Stribling to merit headlines. But Jack must, besides concentrating great efforts on his training, watch his own temper which may either key him up into a real mankilling spirit or work him down the opposite direction in such a manner as he was affected prior to his fights with Heeney, Walker, Retzlaff and Christner.

Max's Teutonic calm, his great courage and ability to blot up punishment are all calculated in his favor. They may make the ex-Gob lose his head, jump out of the ring, foul or expire publicly from the force of his passion.

We pick Sharkey as the country's most skilled, the most scientific and technically speaking, the most perfect heavyweight in the world. Had he the patience, the calm, Schmeling, he would annihilate the German in brutal manner and mow him down with ease. But he hasn't and therefore the fight is a toss-up.

Sharkey has worked up a white hatred for Schmeling. The German may or may not resent his attitude but this fight, whether anyone is present or not, whether the gate brings in a million or a hundred dollars, should be a real battle.

TALKING with Hugh "Pus" McPhee in Youngstown, it is found that there are fine possibilities that the 1933 state basketball tournament will be held at the Goodyear gymnasium in Akron. McPhee officiated in the state tourney at Columbus last March and appears certain that the event will be transferred to the Rubber City.

He is one of many who are loud in their praises of Salem and its athletic teams and is known as one of the district's outstanding basketball officials.

On the same night Al Zill, Youngstown's noted fight impresario was met and dapper Al says that Jack Dempsey may still appear in Youngstown in a fight exhibition. It's all a mystery to even Al as to why the Manassa Mauler didn't appear against George Panka last winter but he says arrangements are now under way to have him show there this summer.

Zill is still trying hard to eke a livelihood out of the ring game but comments that he hasn't "made a penny in eight months." He's been promoting shows in Steubenville of late but the cash just doesn't seem to want to come his way. If anyone is deserving of good things from the fight racket it's Zill for he's put out some really good entertainment for fans of the district.

Nineteen sets of brothers perform for various teams in the Salem softball league.

Here they are: Al and Pete Sanders, Castle and Rusty Krepps, Wayne and Purn Sidinger, Ed and Clarence Sidinger, August and Frank Corso, Mike and Pete Sartick, Jim and Tom Primm, Bob and Bill Cope, Clem and Frank Scullion, Dick and Gordy Scullion, Galen and Clifford Greenisen.

Twine and Arnold Seeds, Mike and Fred Schuller, Patsy and Dick Konert, Earl, Chance and Bill Mays, Jim and Elmer Smith, Ducky and Jess Youtz, Dick and Wilbur Paxson, Dale and Paul Ritchey.

Clem Scullion and his son Paul are the only "father and son" duo in the league. And the boy has filled in in great style at second base for the Potters while the "old man" is still recuperating from rheumatism which comes with such advanced age.

Ring Rivals Display Great Improvement as Date for Fight Nears

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 16—The faintest shade in the fortunes of war, one tiny error of judgement or marksmanship, can turn the heavyweights championship to Jack Sharkey Tuesday night after seven long years of seeking, or leave Max Schmeling without another serious title contender in sight.

Smart men of the ring are shaking their heads. Probably no two warriors in modern ring history have shown as brilliantly as the dark browed, smiling German, and the massive, determined Sharkey in their training campaigns this week.

Both In Fine Condition

Sharkey the usually blustering, bellicose, erratic sailor, and Schmeling, Europe's lone heavyweight champion, have come down toward the close of their training campaigns in the best condition either ever has attained for battle.

Sharkey, more faithful than ever before in training, apparently has capitalized fully for the first time all the extraordinary punching and boxing endurance he has cast aside at least three times in the past.

He is pounds heavier yet, at 262 the weight has lodged in his shoulders, where it adds to the power of his punches.

Max Changes Style

Yet Schmeling, who won the title two summers ago on a foul, in four rounds after Sharkey had battered him every second of the first three, is equally impressive. He seems immune to punishment.

Tied World Mark

Not only did Percy Beard, of the New York Athletic Club, win the 120-yards high hurdle event at the annual Metropolitan A. A. A Tough Pull and a Rough Pull for Lions

This fine action picture is proof positive that sport can sometimes take on the form of hard work. The Columbia University varsity crew is shown in a spirited workout on the Hudson River at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on a day when the river was not ideally suited for rowing. Notice the cloud of spray thrown up by the oar-swingers, who are preparing for the coming intercollegiate regatta.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

In its recent confession the Gillette Safety Razor Company told you that, under the stress of introducing a new razor and blade, uniformity had suffered; and told you how our efforts to correct the trouble had resulted in the development of a far superior product.

Several readers have asked us how we can make the bold, positive statement that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades we have ever produced. This is a fair question, and here is our reply: A marvelous new testing machine, recently developed, scientifically proves that these blades have never before been approached in keenness.

We cannot discuss the nature or details of this machine because it is being patented. But we can tell you that it measures microscopic dimensions with unflinching accuracy — revealing with mathematic exactness, actual degrees of razor-blade sharpness.

So when we state that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest we have ever made we are basing our assertion upon fact. We know we are right and can prove it.

Further than this—everyone knows that a razor blade must be able to bend without cracking when tightened in the holder. This requires steel of a certain temper not suitable for a keen cutting edge. The problem is to permit flexing and yet have a hard edge that can be ground and stropped for proper shaving performance. Gillette has achieved the solution of this problem in the manufacture of its slotted blades.* These blades are made by a special tempering process that makes the edges exceptionally hard, while the center, of a different temper, flexes easily.

We urge you to try today's Gillette blades—

the regular blade in the familiar green package or the BLUE SUPER-BLADE in its blue package, Cellophane wrapped. Do so without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades you have ever used, return the package and your dealer will refund your money.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package, Cellophane wrapped.

Terry Makes Good Start as Manager Of New York Club

(By Associated Press)
Time alone will judge of Bill Terry's ability to handle a big league club, but there is no denying he has made an imposing start as major domo of the Giants.

When he took them off John McGraw's tired hands less than two weeks ago, the New Yorkers were running eighth.

All Terry did after he took charge—for publication, at least—was to abolish the 11:30 "curfew" rule and appoint a new club doctor, but it hasn't looked like the same team.

Now In Fourth Place

Today the Giants stood in fourth place, only four games from the top, after winning eight out of ten games played under their new foreman. A costly error by Bill Herman, Chicago second baseman, gave the "Terryers" five runs in the eighth inning and a 6 to 3 victory over the Cubs in their opener yesterday.

Two were out and the bases filled when Herman let Lindstrom's grounder get away. Then the deluge.

The defeat did not cut into the Cubs' lead over the field, however, as the second place Boston Braves were dropping a 5 to 2 verdict to Pittsburgh.

Floyd Caves Herman had a happy homecoming at Ebbets field as the Cincinnati Reds trimmed Brooklyn, 5 to 1. The Babe hit a homerun, a triple and a double and drove in three runs against his former mates. The Phillies took a shortening contest from the Cardinals, 7 to 4, rain stopping play in the seventh inning.

Gehrig Hits Homer

The American league's three top teams encountered defeat. The Yankees dropped a close one to the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1. Lou Gehrig hit his 14th homerun.

Earl Webb, playing his first game with Detroit, teamed up with Gerald Walker to defeat Washington, 7 to 6.

The St. Louis Browns shaded the Athletics, 9 to 8, when they scored twice in the ninth. Cleveland made it a clean sweep for the west as Wes Ferrell turned back the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 3, for his twelfth triumph.

Fishing for Nomination, Al?

Although he is said to be fishing for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, was after smaller game when this picture was made. The "Happy Warrior" is shown at Hampton Bay, L. I., where he spent a short vacation from politics. Al didn't say what bait he was using, but made it clear he was fishing for fish.

GREATEST BARGAIN IN SALEM TODAY!

The large, 17-room, 3-apartment home at 1383 E. State St. Lot 95x217, and you cannot buy a vacant lot the equal of this one for less than $5,000. No contractor can build this home and large garage and workshop for less than $12,000. So draw your own conclusions. Here you sit idly dreaming at a time when keen intellectual and far-sighted men always invest, and when too late, and the wheels of industry have started to move, as move they will, you will awaken from your slumbering lethargy to find your opportunity gone. Make me an offer on this home. A home with many possibilities, a grand location, and dirt cheap. Cash needed. $1,800
